

NIGHT POLICEMAN COMMITS SUICIDE CHARGES JUGGLING OF TELEPHONE COMPANY FUNDS

USERS GAIN BIG POINT IN RATE BATTLE

Evidence of Manipulation Submitted to State Utilities Commission.

Customers of the Citizens Telephone Co., of Circleville found a ray of hope in their fight against higher rates Friday following evidence submitted to the state utilities commission Thursday which purported to show that utility holding companies with headquarters in Kansas City and elsewhere are manipulating finances of the Circleville concern and other telephone companies.

In a report submitted to the utilities commission, E. W. Wood, accountant, said a "small group of individuals" were juggling the affairs of 11 Ohio companies, of which the Circleville company is one. One of the practices, Wood charges, is that of paying "unofficial dividends" and otherwise manipulating expenses in such a manner as to make it appear that present telephone rates are inadequate.

AIDS LONG FIGHT
Along with other cities, Circleville has been fighting the proposed rate increase for years. Customers are paying an increased rate, subject, however, to refund if the municipalities win the fight.

Wood's report to the utilities commission was based primarily on an investigation of the Cambridge Home Telephone Co., one of the 11 involved in the rate controversy. Wood alleges that he found these practices:

That balances of the Cambridge company were transferred to The Ohio Gray & Co., Kansas City, one of the affiliated companies, and that no interest has been paid to the Cambridge company.

That a considerable volume of the expenses of the Midland Trading company Kansas City, which apparently controls the Cambridge company, has been absorbed by the Cambridge company.

That pay rolls, vouchers and checks which purported to cover payments to individuals for services were made out to the Cambridge company.

MERCURY HERE DROPS TO 10

Although Scientists Thought to Have Spent Half Reports Show More Cold.

With Circleville's official temperature dropping from 18 degrees at 7 a. m. Thursday to slightly below 10 degrees above zero Friday, weather reports from throughout the state indicated that the thermometer will go still lower before Saturday.

Temperatures throughout the state sagged still lower today as Ohioans cleared away a blanket of snow in an effort to compute the toll of life and property in winter's most recent devastation which was capped by Wednesday's gale and sleet storm.

Although the raging fury of the storm had apparently spent itself, predictions in some sections of the state—especially the north—were for more snow.

POPE EMERGES FROM VATICAN

Celebrates 50th Anniversary of Priesthood By Visiting Basilica.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 20.—Celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his priesthood, Pope Pius XI, today emerged from this Holy City for the first time since he became supreme pontiff of the Catholic church and visited the St. John Lateran Basilica, where he was ordained a priest on Dec. 20, 1879.

His holiness left the gates of St. Peter's square in a motor car at 6:30 o'clock this morning, traveling incognito.

None witnessed his departure, because of the early hour, and the Pope crossed all of Rome and returned unnoticed.

It was the first time a Pope had trod the soil of the Italian government since the breach between the Church and State in 1870.

The Pope was accompanied by Monsignor Caccia and a number of other high dignitaries of the church.

DRESSED IN ROBE

His holiness was dressed in a white robe covered by a red mantle. The monsignors followed the pontiff's automobile in five other cars.

The entire journey from Vatican City to the St. John Lateran Basilica lasted only two hours, as the Holy Party returned to the Vatican at 9:30 a. m.

Only Monsignor Caccia rode in the heavily curtained automobile which bore the Pope to the scene of the first step in his notable career.

The Basilica had been purposefully kept empty. Early worshippers who came there to hear Mass were surprised when they were asked to seek another place of worship.

It was the final act consummating the complete accord of Church and State effected through the signing of the Lateran Treaties this year which were followed by the visit of King Victor Emmanuel, Queen Elena and Crown Prince Hubert to the Pope.

The purpose of the Pope's visit to the St. John Lateran Basilica was to celebrate Mass, the service was not open to the public, as the famous old church's doors were closed immediately after the Pope and those with him entered.

COUNTY CREAM PRODUCERS ADDRESSED BY SPECIALIST

Forty-seven county cream producers attended the annual meeting of the Pickaway cooperative cream association which was held at the Farm Bureau Home Thursday. The financial report for the period Dec. 1, 1928 to Nov. 30, 1929, presented by Manager Harry J. Briggs shows that 337,145 pounds of butterfat and 58,644 dozens of eggs, representing $183,359.11 was transacted the past year. The total route collection and station operating expense was four cents per pound butterfat.

In addition to maintaining price in butterfat, the producers of the Pickaway cooperative cream association have received a patronage dividend of $7,389.83 during this year.

Don S. Kochheiser, Dairy Extension Specialist of Ohio State university, in addressing the producers made the statement that while dairy prices for dairy products during the last eight weeks had been somewhat discouraging, that the dairy industry with an ever increasing population should afford economic returns for the enterprising cream producer. Mr. Kochheiser cited the fact that in 1929 the average consumption of butter per capita in the United States was 24 pounds and that in 1929 this had been raised to 18 pounds per capita. With 120 million persons, this four pound increase represented six times the amount of butter produced in Ohio.

Records of the past would indicate an increase in population during the next ten years of 15 million people. As the consuming public is informed on the merits of butter, over butter substitutes, the per capita consumption can be readily increased. The average per capita consumption of butter in Canada, New Zealand and Australia is 28 pounds as compared to 18 pounds consumed by the Citizens of the United States. Pickaway-co farmers receive 10 per cent of their farm income from dairying. This represents over $600,000. In periods such as we face at the present with a surplus of six per cent of dairy products on hands as compared to one year ago, the enterprising dairyman will start in culling the undesirable and unprofitable cows from his herd. Figures in Ohio show that one third of the cows kept by the average Ohio dairyman will keep one-third of the rest of his herd and one-third of the cows in his herd are just breaking even.

Mr. Kochheiser then stressed the importance of cooling the cream immediately following separation. Cream should be thoroughly cooled before it is added to regular cream storage can. Mr. Kochheiser also stressed the importance of the producer eating butter and supporting his own industry. The producers re-elected the Board of Directors which have handled their business during the past year. This board is composed of the following men: C. T. Hay, Walnut-twp.; A. M. Peters, Madison-twp.; W. E. Berger, Harrison-twp.; Clay Hitler, Washington-twp.; R. R. Bressler, Fairfield-co, Clearcreek-twp.; J. L. Shasteen, Wayne-twp and John Bell, Circleville-twp.

The feature of the evening's program was Maynard Sensenbrenner as Santa Claus, who in a humorous manner presented many gifts which the members needed.

Every member of the Brotherhood brought a toy to be distributed to the children at the Home and it was decided to auction off the toys. J. D. Hummel acting as auctioneer secured $92.71 to be given to Rev. George Troutman as a Christmas present from the Brotherhood. The toys were redonated by the Brotherhood.

The meeting was the last for 1929.

SNOOK GIVEN STAY UNTIL JANUARY 31

Ex-College Professor Smiles As He Is Informed of Court's Decision.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—(INS.)—A Yuletide stay of execution will prevent Dr. James Howard Snook, 49, ex-college professor and convicted murderer of his co-ed sweetheart, Miss Theora Hix, from paying the supreme penalty in the electric chair tonight for his brutal crime.

When informed that he had been granted a stay, the steel-nerved slayer, looking out from behind the bars of his cell in "death row" at the Ohio State penitentiary here, simply said, "I'm mighty glad to hear that."

The Ohio supreme court, late yesterday afternoon, granted the doomed man a stay of execution until Jan. 31. No action was taken on the killer's appeal for a new trial, but it was stated that despite the recess, a decision may be forthcoming at any time.

With the granting of the short reprieve, wild rumors that Dr. Snook was to be electrocuted in the early morning hours of today were blasted.

WIFE STILL LOYAL

E. O. Ricketts, defense attorney for Dr. Snook, said that the man's wife, Mrs. Mabel Marple Snook, was still loyal to her husband.

"Mrs. Snook is as loyal as ever to her husband," said Ricketts, "She visits him nearly every day."

Ricketts reiterated his statement that if the supreme court rejects the appeal, he will carry the case to the United States Supreme court.

The rumors, which stated that Dr. Snook would die last night, were entirely unfounded. Even if the supreme court had overruled the appeal and refused a stay of execution legal papers which were then in the hands of supreme court clerk, Seba Miller, would have prevented the execution. The papers signified the defense attorney's intention to carry the case to the U. S. supreme court and would have automatically granted Dr. Snook a stay, it was explained.

Dr. Snook was convicted of killing Miss Hix an O. S. U. student for whom Dr. Snook had maintained a "love-nest," after one of the most sordid trials ever heard in an American courtroom.

11 ARRESTED IN COLUMBUS

Several Confess To Taking Part In Hold-ups—One Woman Is Held.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—(INS.)—Eleven persons ranging in age from 17 to 47 years, were arrested in a police roundup early today as authorities sought to curb the pre-holiday crime wave here. All are alleged to have participated in holdups.

Some of those arrested, according to police, have confessed, thus cleaning up several of the score or more of holdups which have been staged here during the past week.

One woman, who gave her name as Ardeta Scott, 20, was among those who were arrested.

John Giles, 25, another of the suspects, was found in bed by police. He refused to take him hands from under the covers and when police investigated, they allegedly found a quart of liquor.

Will Lose Royal Diadem For Her New Religion

MEN CONFESS TO ROBBERY

Chicken Thieves, Arrested In Fayette-Co., Returned Here To Face Charge.

Thomas Longberry and Homer Queen, the latter of New Holland vicinity, are being held in the county jail pending a hearing on a charge of stealing 30 chickens from John Lewis, Clarksburg—New Holland road farmer, several weeks ago. The pair were arrested by Fayette-co. officials early Thursday following a notice sent out by the local sheriff's office that they were wanted here.

The sheriff of Fayette-co. arrested the two men near Washington C. H., and upon questioning them in jail gained a confession that they had stolen the chickens and sold them to a man in Williamsport.

DR. H. J. BOND, DENTIST, DIES

Well Known Former Ashville Resident Dies In Omaha of Grippe Attack.

Word was received here Friday that Dr. H. J. Bond, aged 58, who for many years had practiced dentistry in Ashville, had died at his home in Omaha, Neb., Thursday.

Dr. Bond moved to Omaha 12 years ago on account of failing health. He regained his health there and built up a fine practice. He suffered an attack of grippe during the summer which resulted in his death.

He is survived by his widow, Luella Bond, and two sons, Dr. Howard Bond, Omaha, and Donald Bond.

Dr. Bond was very well known throughout the country.

Mrs. H. Campbell McMordie of Windsor, Ont., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis of E. Main-st.

ISAAC GOFF, WELL KNOWN HERE, VICTIM

No Apparent Reason Given For Act—Found By Wife Lying On Couch.

Isaac Goff, 75, night merchant policeman here for the past four years, died at 6 p. m. Thursday of a self inflicted revolver wound while lying on a couch at his home in W. Main-st., just before entering upon his duties for the night.

Goff shot himself through the heart, just after finishing his evening meal, with the .32 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver which he carried with him in making his rounds during the night.

His wife, Mrs. Amelia J. Brown Goff, who was the only person in the house with him at the time of the shooting heard the shot and went to the front room from the kitchen where she was finishing her meal and found Mr. Goff covered with blood, lying on the couch. She tried to find a doctor but in being unable to find one went to the home of her daughter, Mrs. John J. Mack just a few doors up the street who hastened to the Goff home to find Mr. Goff dead. Coroner C. E. Bowers, with Dr. Lloyd Jones, was summoned and after an investigation rendered his verdict as suicide.

No reason could be given for Mr. Goff's action. He had been in good health and according to his friends and relatives had nothing to worry about.

Mr. Goff was born in Pickaway-co., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Goff, on Sept. 21, 1854, and had resided in Circleville practically his entire life. He was married to Amelia J. Brown who survives him, in Circleville in 1878. Seven children were born to this union, all of whom survive. They are Mrs. John J. Mack, W. Main-st.; Miss Nellie Goff, Athens; Clifton Goff, Seal Beach, Cal.; Mrs. Alberta Rigot, Mrs. George Knorr, Mrs. James Bachelder and Mrs. John Thompson, all of Columbus. A brother, John Goff, 213 Walnut-st. and two sisters, Mrs. Rachel Defenbaugh, Laurelville and Mrs. Lydia Massie, Columbus, also survive.

Lutz is said to have made the check to himself using the name of Burr Rader as the signer. The charge was filed in Justice of the Peace E. C. Friece's court.

Trees, decorations and lights will make the spirit of Christmas glow forth in Circleville when the Home Lighting and Decorating contest, being sponsored by the Circleville Chamber of Commerce, gets under way. Every year many Circleville persons motor to neighboring towns to see and enjoy the beauty of Christmas decorations, but this year they can see all this at home and this contest will bring many people to Circleville to view the beautiful displays.

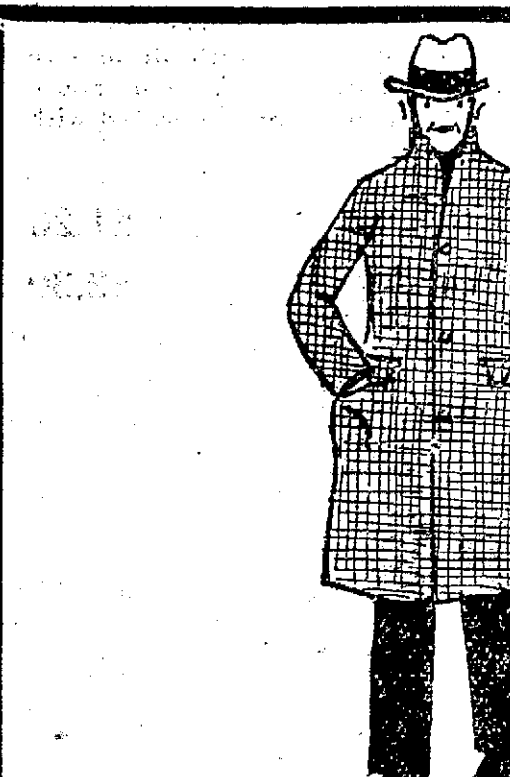

Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, reports a large number of entries and with several more days left this list should grow. The people of Circleville should respond to this contest in large numbers, for there will be nothing that can

Quakers in America

Between 1650 and 1690 George Fox and a few prominent members of the Society of Friends had begun to urge the establishment of a colony in America to serve as a refuge for Quakers. William Penn became interested in the plan as early as 1683. However, his charters were not granted until 1680-82.

Pawnees Odd Tribe

Davidson said Rep. Kaynor telephoned him last night and asked if her could take his friend McGill, with him on the flight. He was given permission.

LAWLESS WATER LEVELS

Chicago has discovered, or thinks it has discovered, why its waterfront was wrecked by high water. And if its theory is correct, the inhabitants of surrounding cities and states bordering on the Great Lakes may now know why their water levels have been changed so markedly this year, with thousands of docks and beaches destroyed and vast areas of lowlands inundated. The story came out in a Chicago lawsuit.

Everybody had wondered why the level of Lake Michigan, Lake Huron and Lake Erie, which regularly rise in the spring and early summer and recede during the rest of the year, started rising in August last year and kept rising, until this year's gain made them higher than they had been for half a century.

It develops that at the end of August, 1928, the "Soo" locks in St. Mary's River were opened to lower the level of Lake Superior, which had risen to heights threatening the operation of power plants. Superior thus poured about twice as much water as usual into the lower lakes the rest of the year and kept it up to some extent into the present year.

General rains continued what that procedure had begun. The other lakes rose several feet, doing enormous damage and arousing a general demand for action to stabilize their levels.

The control of Lake Superior levels apparently is determined by a treaty between the United States and Canada. Those locks at the Soo give easy control.

It would be fairly easy, as government engineers have reported, to provide control at the outlets of Lake Huron and Lake Erie, maintaining normal levels in dry seasons and letting more water escape in wet seasons. There is a growing demand that such works be added to the government's waterway program.

SIN PER CENT

"The old-fashioned mortgage and the conservative real estate bond may not hold out promise of sudden wealth," observes a banker, "but they do not vanish overnight. The debacle in Wall Street will do more than anything we can say to call attention to the value of good old 6 per cent."

It has done so already. That same little old 6 per cent, or even the 4 per cent usually paid by savings banks, looks better to a whole lot of people now than a speculative 10 or 20 per cent on stocks looked to them a couple of months ago.

Real estate, too, has its possibilities of wealth, as it has had in all ages. Many an aristocracy has been based on land ownership. As Henry George was so fond of quoting, "White parrots and elephants made with pride are the fruit of a grant of land."

The modernists have changed everything except the multiplication table, and we may wake to any morning to find that Fred Einstein has changed that.

Pics for the Beautiful

It would be hard to find a more striking example of the difference between the old and the new than in the case of the woman who is beautiful in the old and ugly in the new. The old woman is beautiful because she is old and ugly because she is old.

"The Masked Hostess" by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXXVI.

IN the library at Flintstone, Sloan, behind the big desk and with a telephone instrument at his ear, said:

"What did I tell you, Monty? The first bid is two hundred thousand. And that's just a beginning."

"I know," retorted Monty, "but you and Nathalie ought to be over there. You'd not catch me sitting guzzling liquor in here if a piece of my property was being auctioned under the hammer. I got a headpiece, Jack."

"Keep quiet a minute," responded Sloan. "Two fifty. That will be Pound through a dummy. You ought to be there," insisted Monty. "Something may slip up."

"That's just what would scare them off," retorted Sloan. "They'd think the family was protecting it."

"Three hundred," said Sloan. "Ferris talking. Through an agent, of course. Ferris doesn't care for Long Island just now."

"Where is the swine, anyway?" said Sloan, smiling at Nathalie, who was standing by the open fire with Sylvia.

"Under cover somewhere," Sloan answered him. "He has a police brain and thinks if he keeps out of sight until I have accepted a price and called off the witnesses against him he may 'beat the case,' as he calls it."

"He hasn't any brain of any kind," Stefano insisted. "What a swine. And an ass too."

"Oh, I don't know," declared Monty. "Pound is an important witness. His memory will be useful for money."

"And fifty," interrupted Sloan. "Pound isn't wobbling much right now. That's his bid."

"Three seventy-five," Ferris again, supplanted Sloan. "Monty will cover that with four hundred and then they'll begin to fight. Yes, there he goes. Four hundred."

Monty groaned. "They'll begin to fight is right. Why ain't you over there? The bidding will begin to crawl up now and when it hits the upper figure of one of them the other will cop. Do you think a couple of second-raters like Pound and Ferris have all the money in the world?"

"Now, Monty," interrupted Sloan, "do remember that mother is represented at the party. You know she has a wonderful business. She has explained over and over again to you and Nathalie and John and all of us that she would be a big buy for the place. In fact, letting it go to auction, because after the sale today Nathalie will get everything it has in it and of going to wait years to sell until the road goes through."

"Do you know, Captain Stefano," Sloan announced, "that once I was with you?"

"Couldn't happen I'm sure, Mrs. Swayne."

"Mother said just that," she added turning to Stefano.

"She would," said Monty, and they all laughed, even Sylvia.

"Four hundred and ten," announced Sloan at the telephone. A servant entered the room a little hastily and put a fresh log on the fire. Mrs. Swayne appeared directly after him.

"How is the sale going?" she inquired, addressing Sloan but not heading the answer he gave her. She walked over to the fire and extended her hands to it.

"Sales are dreadfully exciting, are they not?" she said to Stefano and turned to face him, having discovered that he was in the room from the mirror over the fireplace.

"You cannot think how I have worried over this one of Nathalie's. Dear child, I have urged her to take a long rest after her sale is over and then go for a trip, Egypt. I think would be wonderful for the winter."

"Five hundred and twenty," said Sloan at the telephone.

"Not so bad," commented Monty. "But you ought to be there, Jack. Don't tell me tomorrow I didn't say so."

The telephone had a set of ear cups and a head harness. Sloan now put the arrangement on.

"For your benefit, Monty," he said, "I'm not so dumb. I am represented—by a syndicate at the sale which in turn is represented by a big New York real estate operator who is known to both Pound's man and Ferris's man. Our man is pushing the other two up. Every time he bids one or the other of the others caps it. They have money enough. Lots of it. Syndicates are backing them too."

"Excuse me Jack," replied Monty humbly. "I'm on my eleventh cocktail. Can't keep a clear head after ten."

Sloan waved a hand at him to quiet him. Six hundred thousand. We drop out now for that's all it's worth. Pound won't last after he suspects it."

Sloan beckoned to Nathalie who went over and took the chair at his elbow as Mrs. Swayne began speaking again.

She was wearing a sport costume, russet in color to match the mid-November afternoon, and as she talked she moved by skilful slurs to where the sun sent its light into the room through an under colored window hanging. In the light, as it touched her and enhanced her attractiveness, she was singularly youthful and eye filling.

"Do you know, Captain Stefano," Sloan announced, "that once I was with you?"

"Couldn't happen I'm sure, Mrs. Swayne."

Longevity Statistics
The average span of life in this country, of the expectancy of life at birth, is 55.33 years for males and 55.60 for females. The United States life tables, computed by the bureau of the census, show that of 70,000 persons reaching the age of forty, there will be 55,342 living to the age of sixty; in other words, about 78 per cent of those reaching forty will live to the age of sixty.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

One of the most dramatic stories yet told by the talking screen is seen and heard at the Cliftona Theatre Friday and Saturday, where the First National Vitaphone offering, "The Careless Age," is on view.

"The Careless Age" was adapted from John Van Druten's sensational stage play "Diversion," and this all-dialogue picture, which is presented by an all-star cast, is another victory for the talking screen. For "The Careless Age" is even more thrilling and entertaining than was the original stage play.

Beautiful backgrounds, showing scenes in London and at Lake Como, add to the interest of the picture, and the theatre sequence where Carmel Myers sings with an ensemble of very fine voices in the background adds color to the story, and beauty to the musical end of the picture.

AT THE NET

Frank Reicher, veteran stage and screen actor-director, is one of the leading featured players in "Strange Cargo," Pathe's first 100 per cent dialogue Photophone super-special is at the Met theatre on Friday. This production was personally directed by Benjamin Glazer, head of Pathe's sound department.

Reicher augments a cast which includes Lee Patrick, George Barrard, Kyrie Bellew, Ned Sparks, Russell Gleason, Josephine Brown, Claude King and other prominent stage players. Exhaustive screen and voice tests were made to secure the best players for exacting roles. The action takes place on a palatial yacht and it is dramatic and swift moving.

Reicher was one of Paramount's first directors and is well known for his direction of "An American Tragedy" and other stage hits. Recently he was featured in "Four Sons," "The Blue Danube" and other important pictures.

"Strange Cargo" is an adaptation of a story by Benjamin Glazer and Melchior Lengyel. Horace Jackson is credited with the adaptation.

AT THE GRAND

Another of those stage plays, "Phyllis of the Follies" is the feature at Grand theatre Saturday starring Alice Day, Matt Moore and Edmund Burns. The story naturally is of the gay lights of the city.

The first chapter of "Tarzan, the tiger" is also listed.

Rudeness Analyzed

Schopenhauer, probably the best in the lot of the philosophers, says that rudeness is an indication of faulty intellect. This weakness of the intellect tries to find its concealment in much bluster and talk, usually loud, and also in a churlish rudeness. In modern slang: "He wants to let people know he is there." LAWLESS WATER LEVELS
Chicago has discovered, or thinks it has discovered, why its waterfront was wrecked by high water. And if its theory is correct, the inhabitants of surrounding cities and states bordering on the Great Lakes may now know why their water levels have been changed so markedly this year, with thousands of docks and beaches destroyed and vast areas of lowlands inundated. The story came out in a Chicago lawsuit.

Everybody had wondered why the level of Lake Michigan, Lake Huron and Lake Erie, which regularly rise in the spring and early summer and recede during the rest of the year, started rising in August last year and kept right on rising, until this year's gain made them higher than they had been for half a century.

It develops that at the end of August, 1928, the "Soo" locks in St. Mary's River were opened to lower the level of Lake Superior, which had risen to heights threatening the operation of power plants. Superior thus poured about twice as much water as usual into the lower lakes the rest of the year and kept it up to some extent into the present year.

General rains continued what that procedure had begun. The other lakes rose several feet, doing enormous damage and arousing a general demand for action to stabilize their levels.

The control of Lake Superior levels apparently is determined by a treaty between the United States and Canada. Those locks at the Soc give easy control.

It would be fairly easy, as government engineers have reported, to provide control at the outlets of Lake Huron and Lake Erie, maintaining normal levels in dry seasons and letting more water escape in wet seasons. There is a growing demand that such works be added to the government's waterways program.

SIX PER CENT

"The old-fashioned mortgage and the conservative real estate bond may not hold out promise of sudden wealth," observes a banker, "but they do not vanish overnight. The debacle in Wall Street will do more than anything we can say to call attention to the value of good old 6 per cent."

It has done so already. That same little old 6 per cent, or even the 4 per cent usually paid by savings banks, looks better to a whole lot of people now than a speculative 10 or 20 per cent on stocks looked to them a couple of months ago.

Real estate, too, has its possibilities of wealth, as it has had in all ages. Many an aristocracy has been based on land ownership. As Henry George was so fond of quoting, "White parasols and elephants mad with pride are the fruit of a grant of land."

The modernists have changed everything except the multiplication table, and we may wake up one morning to find that Prof. Einstein has changed that.

Plea for the Beautiful

It would be well if there were greater encouragement, lightness of heart and gaiety and a wider cultivation of what is beautiful without being directly and eminently useful.—Dickens.

AN ACCEPTABLE GIFT

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXXVI.

IN the library at Flintstone, Sloan, behind the big desk and with a telephone instrument at his ear, said:

"What did I tell you, Monty? The first bid is two hundred thousand. And that's just a beginning. 'I know,' retorted Monty, 'but you and Nathalie ought to be over there. You'd not catch me sitting guzzling liquor in here if a piece of my property was being auctioned under the hammer. I got a headpiece, Jack.'

"Keep quiet a minute," responded Sloan. "Two fifty. That will be Pound through a dummy. 'You ought to be there,' insisted Monty. 'Something may slip up.'

"That's just what would scare them off," retorted Sloan. "They'd think the family was protecting it. 'Three hundred,' announced Sloan. 'Ferris talking. Through an agent of course. Ferris doesn't care for Long Island air just now.'

"Where is the swine, anyway?" put in Stefano, smiling at Nathalie, who was standing by the open fire with Sylvia.

"Under cover somewhere," Sloan answered him. "He has a police brain and thinks if he keeps out of sight until I have accepted a price and called off the witnesses against him he may 'beat the case,' as he calls it."

"He hasn't any brain of any kind," Stefano insisted. "What a swine. And an ass too."

"Oh, I don't know," declared Monty Delaine. "Pound is an important witness. His memory will wobble for money."

"And fifty," interrupted Sloan. "Pound isn't wobbling much right now. That's his bid."

"Three seventy-five. Ferris again," supplanted Sloan. "Pound will cover that with four hundred and then they'll begin to fight. Yes, there he goes. Four hundred."

Monty groaned. "They'll begin to fight is right. Why ain't you over there? The bidding will begin to crawl up now and when it hits the upset figure of Nathalie he will get everything it brings instead of having to wait years to sell until the road goes through."

"Now, Monty," interrupted Sylvia, "do remember that mother is represented at the sale. You know she has a wonderful business head. She has explained over and over again to you and Nathalie and John and all of us that she would be silly to buy the place instead of letting it go to auction, because after the sale today Nathalie will get everything it brings instead of having to wait years to sell until the road goes through."

15 YEARS AGO

The College Club met at the home of Mrs. Carl Ritz Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. John Neff and daughter, Miss Verna were visitors in Columbus Friday.

Dr. H. V. Dupue and Mr. Hal D. Dupue, of Parkersburg, W. Va., were guests of W. H. Albaugh.

"Mother said just that," she added turning to Stefano.

"She would," said Monty, and they all laughed, even Sylvia.

"Four hundred and ten," announced Sloan at the telephone.

A servant entered the room a little hastily and put a fresh log on the fire. Mrs. Swayne appeared directly after him.

"How is the sale going?" she inquired, addressing Sloan but not heeding the answer he gave her. She walked over to the fire and extended her hands to it.

"Sales are dreadfully exciting, are they not?" she said to Stefano and turned to face him, having discovered that he was in the room from the mirror over the fireplace. "You cannot think how I have worried over this one of Nathalie's. Dear child, I have urged her to take a long rest after her sale is over and then go for a trip, Egypt, I think, would be wonderful for the winter."

"Five hundred and twenty," said Sloan at the telephone.

"Not so bad," commented Monty. "But you ought to be there, Jack. Don't tell me tomorrow I didn't say so."

The telephone had a set of ear cups and a head harness. Sloan now put the arrangement on.

"For your benefit, Monty," he said. "I'm not so dumb. I am represented—or rather Nathalie is represented—by a syndicate at the sale which in turn is represented by a big New York real estate operator who is known to both Pound's man and Ferris's man. Our man is pushing the other two up. Every time he bids one or the other of the others caps it. They have money enough. Lots of it. Syndicates are backing them too."

"Excuse me Jack," replied Monty humbly. "I'm on my eleventh cockle. Can't keep a clear head after ten."

Sloan waved a hand at him to quiet him. Six hundred thousand. We drop out now for that's all it's worth. Pound won't last after he suspects it."

Sloan beckoned to Nathalie who went over and took the chair at his elbow as Mrs. Swayne began speaking again.

She was wearing a sport costume, russet in color to match the mid-November afternoon, and as she talked she moved by skillful stages to where the sun sent its light into the room through an amber colored window hanging. In the light, as it touched her and enhanced her attractiveness, she was singularly youthful and eye filling.

"Do you know, Captain Stefano?" she announced, "that once I was untruthful with you—"

"Couldn't happen I'm sure, Mrs. Swayne."

THE END.

25 YEARS AGO

C. E. Blue and daughter, Lucile of Columbus, were guests of I. U. Finkel and family Sunday.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Philip's church held a most successful Christmas sale Thursday.

Carl Seyfert, a student at Northwestern university, Chicago, will spend the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Max Seyfert.

Longevity Statistics

The average span of life in this country, or the expectancy of life at birth, is 55.33 years for males and 57.52 for females. The United States life tables, computed by the bureau of the census, show that of 70,686 persons reaching the age of forty, there will be 32,542 living to the age of sixty; in other words, about 73 per cent of those reaching forty will live to the age of sixty.

"Ah, but it did occur. Do you remember, the night we all were in masks and I said to you that your little hostess spoke dreadful French and had of course been sent by an agency? I was being untruthful then. I knew dear Nathalie instantly, the moment I was in the house, but I was certain you did not know her and so spoke as I did to bewilder you. For though I did not know why she had not confided in me that she was going to co-operate with you in your wonderful hospitality at The Firs, I knew you did not know who was helping you so marvelously and I wished Nathalie to have her secret violated. She has always been a little bizarre and I knew she would have wished to."

Monty and then Sylvia hastened over beside Sloan and Nathalie when Sloan said, "Six hundred and eighty-five thousand."

"How delightful," said Mrs. Swayne as Stefano ejaculated. "Oh, I say, look here—"

"It will be so pleasant, will it not," she declared, holding Stefano with her eyes. "For Nathalie to turn to the problem of her investments when her property has been sold? She is without experience, of course, but so many of my friends are capitalists and bankers that she will have the benefit of splendid advice. And it has just occurred to me, Captain Stefano, that you may know of some wonderful South American shares. Do inform the dear child by letter after you have gone home and learned precisely what conditions are. Dear, dear, you South Americans; every one of you rolling in money. What a wonderful feeling it must be."

She looked over at the group around the telephone. They were intent and silent.

"A lull, I suppose. How long purchasers at sales require to make up their minds. And that reminds me—I must have the cook spoken to about something."

She went gracefully out of the room.

Twenty minutes had elapsed when Sloan appeared.

Stefano did not hear what—if anything—she said to him, for he was staring in fascination at Sloan, who was holding a hand aloft, and who lowered it and struck the desk with it as he said:

"Go!"

And then:

"Going!"

And then:

"Gone! Gone, at the even million."

"You're got a headpiece, Jack," shouted Monty, and looked at Sylvia as Sloan gathered Nathalie in his arms.

THE END.

That the total amount of "salaries and rents" directly paid or indirectly paid to the Kansas City concerns by the various Ohio companies from Jan. 1, 1927, to June 30, 1929, was $60,540.69, and that these items are among those which increase expenses and on the face give a basis for asking rate increases.

CLUB HAS TOUGH SLEDDING BUT BEATS COLUMBUS, 46-19

First Half Ends With Club on Long End of 14-9 Count But Offense Gets Under Way In Second Half To Increase Score—Steele and Parks High With Bus Woodward Playing Fine Ball For the Losers.

Encountering more opposition than they have in any game this season but nevertheless scoring almost at will after the first half the Circleville Athletic Club annexed victory number four Thursday evening with the fast Viereck Florists of Columbus as the losers. The score was 46 to 19 but the Club didn't quite outplay the Columbus gang as much as the score would indicate.

The first period ended with the locals on the long end of an eight to six score. The first period was contested plenty warm and with big Bob Kline playing a sweet defensive game the Club wasn't quite able to get its offense under way. Art Steele hit the net for five of the points while Parks contributed a field goal and Merriman a foul shot. The Club was still in a trance in the second period and despite fast passing and a number of open shots under the net, Merriman was the only man who could score from action. He hit for two field goals while Steele's two fouls made the C. A. C. total of 14 while Columbus was held to three points giving them a nine total.

Then the ball game started. GO IN HIGH Coming out in the third period, the Club offensive got under way led by Parks and Steele and before the session had ended the Club had a comfortable lead of 34 to 14. Parks contributed four field goals and Steele scored a bucket and four fouls.

The Club continued its scoring in the final session to add 12 points while the Florists got five. Art Steele led the Club scoring when he potted three field goals and seven fouls for 13 points. Two men who guarded Steele went out of the game on fouls. Parks was second to Steele with five field goals' four of which came in the third period. The rest of the scoring was fairly evenly divided.

Bus Woodward, Columbus Central all-Ohio guard, was the star of the Columbus team. Woodward scored only one field goal but he increased his score with five fouls. Bob Kline, also a Central high star, was a bear on defense and showed marked ability at taking the ball of the basket. Bob Shea, former Ohio Wesleyan star, refereed the game.

HANLEY'S SHOT AIDS GORDONS

Long Heave From Center of Court Brings 19 to 17 Victory At Washington.

A field goal from near the center of the court by Hanley with just a few seconds to go gave the Gordon Tire basketball team a hard fought 19 to 17 victory over the Emco A. C. at Washington, D. C. Thursday evening.

The game was fast from the start and with the lead see-sawing back and forth several times with only a few seconds came Hanley's game winning bucket. Baucher was high point man for the winners.

DOUBLE AILMENT YIELDS QUICKLY TO NEW KONJOLA

Dayton Lady Declares New Medicine Was First and Only One That Touched Her Case.

MRS. J. D. FURREY
"Konjola was just like a blessing to me, for it did more than all the other medicines and treatments put together," said Mrs. J. D. Furrey, 227 West Fourth Street, Dayton, Ohio. "For several years I was the helpless victim of indigestion—and ailment that got steadily worse. The pains and miseries in my stomach were terrible. Finally rheumatism settled in my arms and certainly added to my pitiful condition.
"My decision to give Konjola a trial proved to be a wise one, for this wonderful medicine was what I needed in the first place. My digestion rapidly improved, and soon the rheumatic pains eased up. Today there isn't a trace of either ailment. I am like a different person. I was sick and unhappy, now I am well and happy—thanks to this new Konjola."
Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton & Ryan drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

CLOUDS BEAT WASHINGTON

Score Slow 21-12 Victory In Preliminary To Club Contest—Heeter High.

The Grant Flying Clouds came back to the win column Thursday in a preliminary to the C. A. C.—Columbus game when they defeated the Washington-twp. All-stars by a score of 21 to 12 in a slow contest.

The Clouds with Heeter doing all the scoring took a lead of 8 to 1 at the end of the first quarter and seemed well on the way to a victory by a large score. They scored four more points on the second while holding Washington safe. In the third period they again scored six counters while the township lads scored once, a field goal by Smith.

In the final session the Washington boys got hot and scored nine counters against three for the Grants.

Heeter with six field goals in three periods was high point man for the victors while Young with six counters and Smith with five scored all but one of the losers markers.

Against All Government

An "anarchist" is one who believes that all forms of government are wrong and unnecessary. Some anarchists believe also that it is their duty to destroy governments. Literally the word "anarchy" means "without a head." Hence it has come to be almost synonymous with disorder, revolution or terror.

CLUB HAS TOUGH SLEDDING BUT BEATS COLUMBUS, 46-19

First Half Ends With Club on Long End of 14-9 Count But Offense Gets Under Way In Second Half To Increase Score—Steele and Parks High With Bus Woodward Playing Fine Ball For the Losers.

Encountering more opposition than they have in any game this season but nevertheless scoring almost at will after the first half the Circleville Athletic Club annexed victory number four Thursday evening with the fast Viereck Florists of Columbus as the losers. The score was 46 to 19 but the Club didn't quite outplay the Columbus gang as much as the score would indicate.

The first period ended with the locals on the long end of an eight

to six score. The first period was contested plenty warm and with big Bob Kline playing a sweet defensive game the Club wasn't quite able to get its offense under way. Art Steele hit the net for five of the points while Parks contributed a field goal and Merriman a foul shot.

The Club was still in a trance in the second period and despite fast passing and a number of open shots under the net, Merriman was the only man who could score from action. He hit for two field goals while Steele's two fouls made the C. A. C. total of 14 while Columbus was held to three points giving them a nine total.

Then the ball game started.

GO IN HIGH

Coming out in the third period, the Club offensive got under way led by Parks and Steele and before the session had ended the Club had a comfortable lead of 34 to 14. Parks contributed four field goals and Steele scored a bucket and four fouls.

The Club continued its scoring in the final session to add 12 points while the Florists got five.

Art Steele led the Club scoring when he potted three field goals and seven fouls for 13 points. Two men who guarded Steele went out of the game on fouls. Parks was second to Steele with five field goals four of which came in the third period. The rest of the scoring was fairly evenly divided.

Bus Woodward, Columbus Central all-Ohio guard, was the star of the Columbus team. Woodward scored only one field goal but he increased his score with five fouls. Bob Kline, also a Central high star, was a bear on defense, and showed marked ability at taking the ball of the basket.

Bob Shea, former Ohio Wesleyan star, refereed the game.

DOUBLE AILMENT YIELDS QUICKLY TO NEW KONJOLA

Dayton Lady Declares New Medicine Was First and Only One That Touched Her Case.

MRS. J. D. FURREY

"Konjola was just like a blessing to me, for it did more than all the other medicines and treatments put together," said Mrs. J. D. Furrey, 227 West Fourth street, Dayton, Ohio. "For several years I was the helpless victim of indigestion—and ailment that got steadily worse. The pains and miseries in my stomach were terrible. Finally rheumatism settled in my arms and certainly added to my pitiful condition."

"My decision to give Konjola a trial proved to be a wise one, for this wonderful medicine was what I needed in the first place. My digestion rapidly improved, and soon the rheumatic pains eased up. Today there isn't a trace of either ailment. I am like a different person. I was sick and unhappy, now I am well and happy—thanks to this new Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton & Ryan drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

CLOUDS BEAT WASHINGTON

Score Slow 21-12 Victory In Preliminary To Club Contest—Heeter High.

The Grant Flying Clouds came back to the win column Thursday in a preliminary to the C. A. C.—Columbus game when they defeated the Washington-twp All-stars by a score of 21 to 12 in a slow contest.

The Clouds with Heeter doing all the scoring took a lead of 8 to 1 at the end of the first quarter and seemed well on the way to a victory by a large score. They scored four more points on the second while holding Washington safe. In the third period they again scored six counters while the township lads scored once, a field goal by Smith.

In the final session the Washington boys got hot and scored nine counters against three for the Grants.

Heeter with six field goals in three periods was high point man for the victors while Young with six counters and Smith with five scored all but one of the losers markers.
